Technology and innovation are changing the way philanthropy is transforming peoples' lives.

It is now more collaborative, rational, and transparent, with a focus on results that sustainably benefit all despite today's global volatility.

This was the driving force behind the 16th Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) Expo and Conference that was held recently by the League of Corporate Foundations (LCF) at the Dusit Thani Hotel in Makati City.

Themed "Disrupting for Social Good," the forum focused on the current state of the Philippines and of the world, in context of global phenomena such as the effects of climate change and the growing significance of social media.
